THAW FACES DEPORTATION

GAINS ONE MORE DELAY. SANITY BEING INVESTIGATED BY BOARD

Coaticook, Sept. 5.—Harry K. Thaw was not "railroaded" across the border by the immigration authorities today, as his counsel had predicted. A special inquiry sat on his case from 10 o'clock in the morning until late afternoon and then adjourned until 9:30 tomorrow morning, when the prisoner will be recalled.

Thaw was on the stand most of the day and made a good witness. His inquirers gradually worked into the question of his sanity, and though his counsel violently objected, it was of no avail, and this line of interrogation will be resumed tomorrow.

Though staving off deportation for the day, Thaw lost in two particulars. His lawyers were denied a writ of prohibition by Superior Judge Hutchinson at Sherbrooke, the same Judge who sustained the writ of habeas corpus which cast Thaw out of the Sherbrooke jail yesterday, and he failed to establish before the board the contention that he had entered Canada as a tourist, and, like Jack Johnson, should be allowed to continue to his destination.

He could produce no through ticket to any point outside Canada. He had a ticket to Detroit, but unfortunately for Thaw it had been purchased at Coaticook.

Unable to show that he had come in to the Dominion at any recognized port of entry Thaw practically was convicted of entering by stealth, and on this charge alone he can be deported. But on this charge he could appeal to the Minister of the Interior, while no appeal would lie should he be found insane at the present time or to have been in an insane asylum within five years. If found of unsound mind now the board could deport Thaw direct to the New York state line. This would mean swift return to Matteawan. Conviction on either of the two other charges would mean deportation to Vermont.

William Travers Jerome spent an impatient day waiting for something to happen. As chief of the New York forces he hoped to have Thaw across the border tonight. His automobile stood all day near the Grand Trunk railway station in the second story of which Thaw is held, and all day Jerome strode up and down the station platform. Twenty other automobiles were ready for the dash to the line, nine miles away.

Thaw resented keenly the questions as to his sanity. If this were to be taken up, he contended, he should be allowed to have alienists present. Two physicians for the immigration authorities, Drs. Guerd and Beauchamp, were present.

When asked point blank if he were sane or insane when he killed Stanford White, Thaw quoted with a remarkable show of memory from the conflicting opinions, of the many alienists identified with his case, and laconically suggested that the board take its choice. He bridled when asked about his mother's condition, just prior to his birth, and said that perhaps she was better qualified to answer.

HOW THE N. A. M. HANDLED CONGRESSMEN

(By Clyde H. Tavener, M. C.)

Washington, Sept. 5.—Former Congressman J. Adam Bede of Minnesota, offers a reward of $1,000 to any charitable organization for proof that the National Association of Manufacturers spent money to bribe a member of Congress.

If Mr. Bede will offer the $1,000 for proof that this association spent money to intimidate, coerce or terrify members of congress into the support of legislation inimical to labor, he will have no trouble in disbursing his savings.

Here is a case in point, which requires no Congressional investigation to substantiate, having been amply proven by correspondence already published. When former Congressman J. J. Gardner first came to Washington as a representative of the people, he was a worthy friend of labor. The N. A. M. promptly took notice of him. It sent much boodle into his district and came near defeating him. Gardner learned his lesson. Thereafter he was "good." That is, he became unfriendly to labor. In fact he became so hostile to labor that Uncle Joe Cannon decided he would make an excellent chairman of the Labor Committee. And Gardner was an excellent chairman from the viewpoint of the N. A. M. Whenever a bill pertaining to the welfare of labor was introduced in the House, it was referred to Mr. Gardner's committee, which was equivalent to referring it to the catacombs, because, unless it was hostile to workingmen, it was never again heard of.

Mr. Bede's published statement is so worded as to imply his belief that the working methods of the N. A. M. were patriotic and deserve no criticism. I desire for one to disagree.

It is true that the published evidence does not show that the method of the N. A. M. is seeking to control legislation was to approach a member of congress and say: "Here is $1,000. Vote so and so." That would constitute a crime punishable with a penitentiary sentence. The scheme used by the N. A. M. was more artistic and modern. It provided for the obtaining of the same results that would be obtained by the more criminal method, without any risk of going to prison.

The working method of the N. A. M. appears to have been as follows: Suppose a member of congress conscientiously believes 8 hours constitutes a fair day's work on a government battleship. He so votes.

The N. A. M. promptly places his name down on the black list, and the next time election rolls around, sends sufficient money into his district to beat him.

I would like to ask Mr. Bede this question: Suppose the N. A. M. was permitted to go on working systematically year after year, spending money to nominate men hostile to labor and spending money to defeat members of congress who refused to be hostile to labor, how long a time does Mr. Bede believe the N. A. M. would need to make congress a body of men that would be exclusively representing big business and special privilege?

And after the N. A. M. had finally succeeded in routing out of congress the very last man independent of big business, how long does Mr. Bede believe the people would be satisfied with this form of government?

REFERENDUM INVOKED

ANOTHER EFFORT WILL BE MADE TO HOLD UP BUILDING OF STATE CAPITOL.

Oklahoma City, Ok., Sept. 4.—J. E. Wyand, member of the Legislature from Muskogee, and H. T. Swearingen of Guthrie today filed a petition with the secretary of state asking for a referendum vote on the state capitol building bill, enacted by the Fourth legislature.

It will require a few less than 13,000 signatures to complete the referendum, and unless these are filed with the secretary of state by Oct. 3 the bill goes into effect the following day. Otherwise its operation is suspended until approved by a vote of the people.

The capitol building bill was passed after the legislature had adopted the McMechan resolution accepting on behalf of the state the northeast site proposition in lieu of the free capitol offers made by Oklahoma City during the removal campaigns. This proposition included 650 acres of land $100,000 in cash and $53,578.50 representing the unpaid portion of the $71-200 pledged by Oklahoma City for free rents following removal of the capitol from Guthrie. Only the $100,000 has been paid, that to Gov. Cruce as trustee, and is on deposit in Oklahoma City banks to the state's credit.

If you Value Your Eyesight see An Expert Ophthalmologist I have spent 20 years preparing myself to perfect the refraction of the eye. My modern equipment, backed by this long experience is your Guarantee of Satisfaction. A. D. Coon, Ramsey Drug Co., Ada, Ok.

The referendum does not seek to tamper with the location of the seat of government, which is regarded as definitely fixed through the McMechan resolution. The bill arranged for the construction work on the building, and made an appropriation. It authorized the appointment of three capitol commissioners, two democrats and one republican, each to receive $3,000 per year salary, and to give bond in the sum of $25,000 each. It provides for an office force, the adoption of plans for a state house, the awarding of contracts and the sale of town lots out of land comprising the northeast site.

The legislature elected as Capitol Commissioners W. B. Anthony of Marlow, former Speaker of the House of Representatives and private secretary to Gov. C. N. Haskell during the first state administration; P. J. Goulding of Enid, ex-state senator, both democrats, and Stephen H. Douglass, ex-postmaster of Ardmore, as the republican member.

By terms of the act the state house is to cost $1,500,000, with one-half of the total amount available for immediate operations. None of it is made available however, until Oklahoma City pays to the state what is due on the free rent pledge made in 1910.

The $750,000 was put together by the following appropriations: $100,000 paid to Gov. Cruce as trustee, $53,578.50 (when paid) representing what is due on the free rent pledge, $94,197.10 to be borrowed from the game protection fund and to be repaid to that fund when money is derived from the sale of town lots, $252,224.40, being unused portions of appropriations made by former legislatures, and held by the state treasurer and $250,000 out of the state taxes collected for the fiscal year ending June, 1915.

The $252,224.40 gathered from unexpended appropriations includes items ranging from 52c to $190,000, the latter being the balance of the 1912 general revenue fund, against a portion of which the state treasurer says there are state warrants outstanding.

The bill also appropriates $24,000 of what the treasury force says is school money and not available for other purposes.

The Oklahoma Sportsmen Association at its last meeting, held in Pond Creek, adopted a resolution to resist the use of the game protection fund for capitol purposes, even though it was under the guise of a loan, and directed its attorney to take legal steps to prevent diversion of the funds. The hunters declared theirs is a trust

Knocking, as a profession, is badly overcrowded. As usual, however, "there's always room at the top" for the fellow who knocks is generally at the bottom.—McAlester News-Capital.

DON'T BE SKIMPY.

Senator Sheppard of Texas wants to clothe women with the ballot, and the Boonville Advertiser makes the suggestion that some of them look like they should be clothed with a blanket. Why not combine the two suggestions and clothe them with the blanket ballot, with the short ballot for the seashore?—Kansas City Journal.

A FEW WORDS ON PROSPERITY.

There has been considerable talk lately about knockers in high places in Oklahoma. We have them. It is time to begin knocking some of them out. Recently these knockers in high places have been prodded from several sources. These so-called knockers belong to an epoch in Oklahoma history that is now closed. They have failed to adjust themselves to the new order of things. They complain; they grouse; they knock. They have passed their period of civic usefulness and but two things remain for them—they must either be made over or bumped out.

The epoch in Oklahoma history that has closed is the speculative era—the something-for-nothing, hurrah and blue-sky era that had its natural place in the course of events fulfilled its mission, served its full time and is now doing service in the scrap heap of history.

In those swift days men made and lost fortunes with equal abandon. The losers didn't grumble and the winners took their winnings easily. Those same winners became our capitalists of today. Many of them adjusted themselves to the changing conditions of time and are still at the helm as full of patriotic enthusiasm as they were in the earlier days. But some have become knockers.

And what is the new condition of today? We are in the pioneer days of industrialism. We are at the point where the road turns into a realm of development of industrialists. To follow this road requires not only enthusiasm, but strong faith and a willingness to work. And not only these but a willingness to co-operate with others working about us. Selfishness must be eliminated. The community spirit must prevail as the chief guiding spirit.

We must produce. We must direct our efforts at production instead of mere promotion as in the past. We must indeed make two blades of grass grow where last year there was but one. We must conserve our money as well as other things. We must have a regard for the business of our neighbors and make it a rule of life to every day do something for that business by buying the things that are produced in Oklahoma in preference to the things that are produced in some other state.—Paul B. Smith, Secretary Home Products and Manufacturers Association, Oklahoma State Manufacturers Association.

No matter how a reputation may be made, it is sometimes hard to get rid of. According to the Johnston County Capital-Democrat when the officers left Tishomingo with the man Borah, who was accused of murdering his wife and daughter and burning the house over their bodies, they intended to bring him to Ada for safe keeping. At Mill Creek, however, some fellow yelled to them that a big crowd was waiting for them at Ada, and remembering a little affair which took place here four years ago, the officers decided their man would be safer in Ardmore. As a matter of fact no one in Ada felt enough interest in the case to bother about it had the prisoner been brought here.

Many tales might be told that hinge on the sound of hastily spoken words to unaccustomed ears. The only true one we have heard of late is this: Last week Charles de Harrack, the well-known pianist, stood in front of a local theater, being polite to a certain society lady. In order to make conversation he said:
"Have you seen 'Julius Caesar' this week?"
"No, I haven't," replied the lady.
"Where is she playing?"

HEAVY STORM ON NORTH CAROLINA COAST

Washington, N. C., Sept. 4.—Property valued at more than $3,000,000 is reported to have been destroyed, and rumors are current of a heavy loss of life as the result of a destructive storm which swept the eastern coast of North Carolina yesterday. Wire communication with the stricken district was only meager Thursday night. Efforts to verify by wireless reports of many casualties on Ocracoke Island, in Pamlico Sound, have been fruitless. All wireless stations in that vicinity are believed to have been destroyed by the storm.

The greatest damage to property occurred in Beaufort county and havoc was wrought among the fishing craft in the Pamlico river. In Washington houses and manufacturing plants all along the water front were partially destroyed. The total damage in this county alone is roughly estimated at $2,000,000.

The fury of the gale was chiefly centered upon the towns along Pamlico Sound, among these being Morehead City, Beaufort, Newbern, Washington, Bayboro, Bell Haven and a score of smaller places. A deluge of rain accompanied the wind and the tide in Pamlico Sound was many feet above the ordinary highwater mark.

All points along the coast report heavy damage to shipping.

It was reported at Norfolk, Va., that the wireless station there had been unable to get into communication with the Beaufort or Cape Hatteras wireless stations and that both the latter had been wrecked by the hurricane. The Hatteras wireless station is located near the scene of the reported Ocracoke disaster. It was reported that the revenue cutter Seminole had been ordered to Ocracoke Island where it is rumored several hundred lives were lost. Efforts to verify this rumor until a late hour tonight were futile.

JUDGE MCKEOWN PRESIDES IN UPDIKE TRIAL

Oklahoma City, Sept. 4.—District Judge T. D. McKeown of Ada, sitting in place of Judge G. W. Clark, overruled the motion of the county attorney to postpone the trial of B. H. Updike on the charge of murdering A. O. Christianson, and ordered the case to be called at 1:30 Thursday afternoon. The county attorney had expected the case would be continued owing to the fact that six of the most important witnesses were out of the state and could not be brought back at this time.

Updike is charged with the murder of Christianson in Oklahoma City on the night of January 15, 1911. He was convicted in Oklahoma county on a charge of murdering P. D. Anderson on the same night, and sentenced to the penitentiary for life. He was pardoned in August by Acting Governor J. J. McAlester, but was arrested on an alias warrant issued at the request of the Oklahoma county attorney and brought back to face trial on the other charge. Attorneys McAdams and Haskell will represent the defendant, and Assistants Thompson and Zimmerman, of the county attorney's office will represent the state. Judge McKeown will preside over the trial.

Fire Fighters on Parade.

New York, Sept. 5.—The convention of the International Association of Fire Engineers, which has held forth here since the beginning of the week, culminated today in a grand street parade. Fifteen hundred fire fighters, representing the paid and volunteer departments of the metropolitan district and many near-by cities, were in line. The procession also included a display of fire-fighting apparatus, from the old "hand tub" to the modern motor-propelled engines and trucks. Following the disbanding of the parade the fire fighters assembled on Riverside Drive for the unveiling of the Firemen's Monument. The monument is an imposing affair of bronze and granite, representing a fire engine drawn by three plunging horses.

GREAT REVIVAL AT STEEDMAN

At Steedman, Okla., beginning Aug. 24th, 1913, and closing Sept. 3, held by Rev. W. H. Nettles, pastor of the M. E. church South, and assisted by Revs. Caldwell and Wootton.

We call this a great revival because men and women of all denominations shouted, praised and worshipped God together in the old time way, while stout hearted sinners and skeptics were deeply convicted of their sins, came to the altar, wept, agonized and prayed through to victory, and even some were converted in the woods while making ties.

One man fell prostrate at the altar and a brother-in-law of his who was at the altar at the time, was informed by some one that his brother-in-law was dead, he became alarmed at this and started to take him out and the Lord him with such convicting power that he could not do a thing but surrender his case into the hands of God and was saved then and there. Another who was a skeptic said this man was dead, and if he did ever get

This sale of used kodaks affords a once-a-year chance that we do not think you can afford to overlook. It comes about, that in the course of a year we sell a number of kodaks to people who wish to use them—say, during their vacation or for an excursion in the woods. After while they get so fond of kodaking that they come back to get different ones more adapted to their purposes or better ones. Naturally under the circumstances the most graceful thing we can do is to take them in exchange or as part payment. It is the kodaks accumulated in this manner that we are now offering at very reduced prices. out of the altar without being carried out he would believe, so in a few minutes this supposed dead man came to his feet shouting, leaping and praising God, the result was that the skeptic was gloriously converted before he left the grounds; we feel that this revival has forever put an end to skepticism in and around Steedman.

On Sunday, August 30th, the good people of Steedman and surrounding country brought their dinners and some ice with them and spent the day on the grounds, so we had plenty of everything good to eat, with plenty of ice water, and three good services which made the day to be long remembered by everyone.

The premium list will not be large, but large enough, since every farmer in the county is interested in helping to build up the standing of his county. The business men are very liberal in making their donations, after having spent so much on good roads, and every farmer should bring in the very best he has even if it is not very good. You should remember that crops have been cut short all over the state this year and from reports we think Johnston county, probably stands as good chance to win as any other county in the state. DR. MAHR MAKES INSPECTION OF ADA

Thursday afternoon Dr. Mahr, state health officer, met with a number of citizens and in an informal conference gave the result of his inspection of the city. According to his estimate Ada is entitled to rank at not less than 77 per cent on the basis laid down by Holland's Magazine. He stated, however, that when Dr. Carrick, who is making the official inspection, looks over the situation, he may possibly grade some points a trifle higher. In the Texas contest of 1912 Brownwood won first place with a score of 89 1-2.

Following are the points upon which the inspection is based and the grades he gave Ada:

Would You Have Raised This Man's Salary.

(The following story, taken from the September American Magazine, brings up the question as to whether under the circumstances, the man in this story should have his salary raised.)

"Good morning, Mr. Perkins," greeted Forbes airily.

Perkins glared, speechless.

"Good morning, Mr. Perkins," repeated the young salesman politely.

Perkins exploded.

"What th' dickens d'yuh mean by butting in on me," he roared.

"Quite so. Quite so," agreed the young man. "Now to our business--"

"I won't listen! Beat it--quick!"

"What I wished to see you about was--"

"I said, get out of this office!"

"But I--"

"Well, what is it? Quick!"

"I am now drawing sixty dollars per month," said Forbes easily. "I wish it increased to eighty, commencing--"

"And for that you come campaigning in here at my busiest hour. Boy, are you plumb crazy?"

"Don't get excited, sir. Eighty dollars is a trifling sum--"

"Trifling sum? Good Lord! Why when I was your age, eighty dollars was a huge amount--"

"But times have changed, Mr. Perkins. When you were my age times were different. The cost of living, education, and morals were lower. Neither pure food nor Teddy Roosevelt had come into use. More time and liquor were consumed, fewer books read. With all due respect I venture to suggest that modern salaries are not to be regulated by what they once were."

"Say-- Say--" spluttered the late employer. "I know you're going to be disappointed. D'yuh know you're the first one of my men who's dared to ask me for a raise? Can't I run my own business? Don't I know when a man deserves a raise without him comin' in here when I'm up to my ears in work?"

"So I suspected," returned Forbes.

"However, I'm not trying to run your business. My matter is personal to me--"

"You--you--"

"Don't say it--please," admonished the younger man. "You might regret it."

"Well, of all the--"

"Nerve," completed Forbes. "Yes, it's nerve, Mr. Perkins; I admit that; but success requires nerve these days."

Perkins's stern features relaxed a trifle and he indulged in the ghost of a smile.

"Mebbe you're right," he hazarded.

"At an yrate, you've plenty of the right stuff in you, if you are fresh. You need taking down; but--well, come out with me and I'll fix it with the cashier."

Together they strode out. The office force applied itself mightily in the presence of the Man Higher Up, but they watched covertly and wondered at Forbes's triumphant grin.

The pair paused at the cashier's desk; and the salesman delighted in the fact that Perkins spoke loudly. All listened attentively.

"Simmons," said the Big Boss, "this morning I sent you an order to raise the salary of Forbes, here, to one hundred dollars a month. Cut it down to eighty!"

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.

70,000 MEN IN GERMAN MANEUVERS

Berlin, Sept. 5.--On the historic plains of Silesia, where the armies of Frederick the great carried the standards of Prussia just one hundred and fifty years ago, another great army carrying the imperial colors of a united Germany assembled today under the eye of Frederick's descendant, Emperor William II. For the next five days this modern army of 70,000 men, divided into two opposing corps, will engage in the annual Grand or "Kaiser" maneuvers, which are the most important army exercises of the year.

The maneuvers this year are regarded as the most important ever held by the German army. More men are engaged than ever before, while the tests to which they will be put will be unusually severe. Aeroplanes and dirigibles, the latter equipped with wireless outfits, will be employed for scouting purposes and the carrying of despatches. The German army is soon to have a bicycle corps for the first time, and it is expected the various types of machines will be tried out in a practical way during the maneuvers.

Eminent military leaders of many countries are to witness the maneuvers as personal guests of the Emperor. Among them are Gen. Pollio, chief of the general staff of the Italian army, and Gen. Ramon Fmiz, chief of the general staff of the army of the Argentine Republic. All of the kingdoms, grand duchies, principalities and other component parts of the German empire are represented by their rulers or other distinguished dignitaries. The King of Saxony, the King of Wurtemberg, Prince Frederick William of Prussia, and Prince Rupert of Bavaria are among the number.

Practically all of the commanding officers of the army are to attend, the list being headed by Field Marshals von der Goltz and Count von Haeseler. While the detailed program has not been made public, it is understood that the general idea will be to solve the problems of defense against an invasion of Germany from the East. The invading and defending armies will be represented by the 5th and 6th Army Corps, respectively. Until the maneuvers are well under way none of the generals-in-chief will be given any information as to where the Emperor's headquarters are located, that this knowledge may not influence their dispositions.

37 YEARS IN SOLITARY CONFINEMENT

Boston, Mass., Sept. 5.--Jesse Pomeroy, probably the most notorious life prisoner in the United States, tomorrow will enter upon the thirty-seventh year of his confinement behind the gray walls of the famous State Prison in Charlestown. All of these years have been spent in solitary confinement. This does not mean, however, that he never leaves his cell. If he so desires he is permitted to exercise in the prison yard outside his cell for an hour every day in charge of a guard. But this is while the other prisoners are at work in the shops. He is never permitted to meet or see any person excepting his mother, who comes to see him once a month, the prison warden and occasionally the governor or members of his council.

Pomeroy was a boy of sixteen when he was sentenced to prison for life for torturing and murdering little children. He is now well past his fiftieth year. Much of his time has been spent in study and reading and he is said to be well informed as to current events. But he has never seen an electric car or automobile, never heard a phonograph, never talked through a telephone, and has never ridden in an elevator.

So far as the records show Pomeroy has served in solitary longer than any other prisoner in America and, unless the commitment order is changed, he will have to be kept in that manner until he dies. No great effort has ever been made to obtain a pardon for him, but some years ago the American Society for the Promotion of Criminal Anthropology petitioned the governor to remit the solitary confinement clause of Pomeroy's sentence, on the ground that such a punishment is not in accord with modern public sentiment. But before the governor and his council had time to consider the petition an ingeniously-made tool was found on the prisoner and the matter was dropped promptly. More recently the famous prisoner made a desperate effort to regain his freedom and did succeed in escaping from his cell. With the aid of a tool or tools which the prison authorities have never located Pomeroy cut the bars of his cell door and was quite a distance down the prison corridor before he was discovered and captured by the guards.

Kansas Town "Wet" for Week.

Protection, Kan., Sept. 5.--Protection got a ducking this week in a big galvanized tank, which an evangelist had utilized for immersion, and which remained filled with water. Small boys began dousing their companions Wednesday. Clothing was not removed. The swimming holes are dried up and the small boys inaugurated a general and compulsory town ducking.

Young men and merchants took up the fad of throwing each other into the tank. Some women were treated to unsought and unlooked for souplings. The mermaid makers met all the trains and took bankers, bakers, butchers to the tank. Only one man escaped and he met the ducking committee with a fire extinguisher.

Traveling men were immune because the president of the commercial club urged that they were without dry clothing. They were warned not to be found in their nighties and the evening trains carried them all away. Everybody became a water nymph this week in Protection.

A Correction.

Foster Bros., who are the managers of a gin at Stonewall, inform the News that its information to the effect that they attended the meeting at Ada of the managers of the Choctaw gins a few days ago was incorrect and that their gin has no connection whatever with the Choctaw gins.

The News had no representative at the meeting mentioned but published the report as it heard it.
